Introduction

Overview

- 1.1 This Supplementary Planning Document (SPD) provides guidance to developers on how the council will assess and deal with planning applications for student halls of residence. The SPD includes a definition of halls of residence, sets out standards such accommodation should meet, identifies preferred locations and requires such accommodation to be appropriately managed. The Council aims to ensure that through design, location and management student accommodation makes a positive contribution to the city and avoids any potential negative impacts upon local areas.
- 1.2 This SPD adds further detail to policies PCS19 "Housing mix, size and affordable housing", PCS20 "Houses in Multiple Occupation" (HMO's) and PCS23 "Design and Conservation" of the Portsmouth Plan.

Background

- 1.3 Portsmouth is home to Portsmouth University and a number of language colleges all of which provide or need accommodation for students in the city. The university and students have a positive impact on the city in terms of investment, spend and the city's reputation. Figures from the university show that the economic benefit of the university to the local community equals £250 million annually¹. The university has grown in population over recent years and now has 22,000 students studying with it - of these approximately 16,000 live in the city². This increase in the university's student population, together with the growth in language colleges, has resulted in an increased demand for student accommodation in the form of halls of residence or HMO's (shared housing). Halls of residence are no longer provided solely by the university but many schemes for purpose built student accommodation are being bought forward by the private sector. Over the last four years permissions have been granted for student accommodation which if built could provide an additional 1,100 bedspaces. These schemes vary in size from providing 10 bed spaces to over 600. At present there is no guidance as to what constitutes a hall of residence or any standards regarding the type and size of accommodation that should be provided for students.
- 1.4 The council has an SPD which set out standards for C3 residential accommodation and an SPD to avoid concentrations of HMO's. It is therefore considered appropriate to produce an SPD on Student Halls of Residence to:
 - Provide a definition of halls of residence to distinguish them from HMO's; and
 - Set out standards to ensure a good standard of accommodation is provided and Halls of Residences are properly managed to provide a positive living environment for students and to reduce the likelihood of any adverse impacts on residential amenity.

Definition

Student Halls of Residence - a definition

2.1 In order to be considered a Student Halls of Residence for the purposes of determining planning applications the council will use the following definition:

2.2 A student Hall of Residence is:

"Accommodation that is used during term time solely by persons who are undertaking a full time course of further or higher education in Portsmouth.

The accommodation would be for more than 15 persons and as a minimum should provide communal kitchens and lounges of a suitable size for the number of residents (see standards later in para.5.2).

Need

The Need for Halls of Residence

3.1 The demand for halls of residence is mainly from students at the University of Portsmouth. There are also students at language schools -such as the International College Portsmouth (ICP) and LSI Portsmouth (Language Specialists International), who may require accommodation in the city.

3.2 The university would ideally like to offer a room in halls to all first year students and currently this is not possible with only enough space to accommodate 75% of first years. In addition to this, mature students, postgraduates and second and third year students also now request places in halls. The type of accommodation required will vary depending on the student, for example most older students would require a studio flat whereas first years require cluster flats where there is the opportunity for social interaction.

3.3 Therefore at the current time there is a need for additional halls of residence in the city. The council will monitor the situation to ensure enough spaces are provided to meet the need and that an oversupply is avoided. The advantage of increasing available accommodation in halls of residence is that much-needed family homes in the city will be freed up and that could reduce the situation where large parts of roads are deserted over the holiday period.

Location

Location

- 4.1 New halls of residence should be located close to the University or other educational establishments in order to ensure that journeys are made by foot or bicycle and therefore reduce the need for a car. The preferred location would be the city centre or locations within walking / cycling distance.
- 4.2 The City Centre Masterplan 2013³ identifies a number of development sites with the potential for student accommodation and these should be considered in the first instance (see Appendix 2 for a table of potential sites).

Standards

Standards

Space

- 5.1 It is important to ensure that any halls of residence provided in the city offer a good standard of accommodation and provide a good quality living environment with space to study.
- 5.2 Where possible development should be encouraged to provide a mix of cluster flats including some studio flats. Appropriate room sizes will vary depending on the type of accommodation but as a guide the council would expect single rooms to be 7m² and single en suite rooms to be 10-15m². In addition in cluster flats where there are 6-10 students sharing a kitchen/diner of 19.5m² minimum should be provided.
- 5.3 Proposals for halls of residence should include a proportion of accessible bedrooms and servicing facilities in accordance with appropriate standards and regulations⁴.

Parking

- 5.4 The Council has car and cycle parking standards that developments for student accommodation are expected to comply with. These standards are set out in the Parking Standards and Transport Assessments SPD 2014.

³ www.portsmouth.gov.uk

⁴ Access and Guidance considered and / or applied in new build and refurbishments include: Approved Document Part M of the Building Regulations Part M 2010; BS8300:2009 with Addendum A1: Design of Buildings and their approaches to meet the needs of disabled people; BS9999 Code of practice for fire safety in the design, management and use of buildings Supplementary FSO Guide 2007 Fire Safety Means of Escape for Disabled People; Dept of Transport Inclusive Mobility (for external environments); Sign Design Guide; BS 8502 and BS 8501 Graphical Symbols and Signs; Project Rainbow, University of Reading (visual contrast); Managing inclusive building design for higher education, Equality briefing and process checklist. Colleges & University Business Officers

Design

- 5.5 Student accommodation, especially the larger halls of residence, can impact on a local area and should therefore be designed to relate to the character of the area. Proposals for student accommodation should take account of guidance set out in the Portsmouth Plan policies PCS23 Design and Conservation, PCS24 Tall Buildings and the Tall Buildings SPD.

Sustainable Construction and Design

- 5.6 All student development should be designed to meet the Sustainable Design and Construction standards set out in the Portsmouth Plan policy PCS15 Sustainable construction and design and the accompanying SPD.

Management

- 5.7 Well managed student accommodation can help to reduce potential adverse impacts on the surrounding community and therefore private providers of halls of residence will be expected to sign up to the National Code of Standards for Larger Developments for Student Accommodation Not Managed or Controlled by Educational Establishments (www.nationalcode.org/Upload/File/NationalCode-Private.pdf).
- 5.8 The purpose of the code is to help ensure that managers and tenants enjoy the benefit of a good standard of housing management and practice. The code, as well as dealing with issues such as repairs, furniture to be provided, fire safety, also ensures that the building and any surrounding grounds are well maintained, not overgrown and kept free of waste and litter.
- 5.9 Additionally development proposals for student halls of residence should be accompanied by a management plan setting out how it will comply with the National Code and address issues such as pastoral care⁵, security measures and sound proofing.

Other

- 6.1 There are certain standards and policies that do not apply to student accommodation such as a requirement for the provision of affordable housing, and space standards (PCS19). In order to waive these requirements the council needs to be satisfied that the proposed accommodation is student accommodation that conforms to the norms set out in the Codes for accommodation provided either by the Universities or in accordance with appendix 1 and will be restricted to use solely or principally by students. To achieve the appropriate restrictions, applicants will be expected to enter into a section 106 planning obligation restricting the occupation to be used solely or principally by students. A draft form of the standard Section 106 planning obligation is included as appendix 1. This is an example of a standard agreement and it may be that in specific cases changes are required, these will be discussed as part of the application process.

⁵ pastoral care - looking after the health and wellbeing of students.
