1. Purpose of report

- 1.1. To inform the Cabinet Member of the projected revenue expenditure within the portfolio cash limit for the current financial year 2016-17. This report sets out the budget position and contributing factors to the projected overspend within the portfolio as at the end of June 2016.

2. Summary

- 2.1. Following overspend positions in the previous two years, and an initial projected financial pressure of around £1.2m on the budget for this year, the portfolio is currently forecast to overspend by £0.4m in 2016-17.

3 Recommendations

- 3.1 It is recommended that the Cabinet Member:
 - 3.1.1 Notes the Children's Social Care Portfolio forecast budget position, at the end of June 2016, of £0.4m in excess of current approved cash limit provision.
 - 3.1.2 Supports the ongoing process of budget review and implementation of proposals to reduce the projected overspend position and deliver a balanced budget within the area of Children's Social Care.

4 Background

- 4.1 At the commencement of 2016-17 the Children's Social Care Portfolio was created containing the budget areas pertaining to Child Social Care & Safeguarding, Troubled Families and Early Years & Children's Centres.
- 4.2 Expenditure on Children's Social Care and Safeguarding was subject to much scrutiny during 2014-15 and 2015-16 exceeding the budget provision for each year as it did. Under the approved financial arrangements, an overspend is carried forward by the portfolio in the following financial year, as portfolio's are now expected to manage their financial resources across financial years in order to encourage medium term operational and financial planning. However overspends from prior years have been subsumed corporately to provide a clean starting point for the new portfolio.
- 4.3 Significant work has already been undertaken to establish whether the Looked After Children and Safeguarding services more generally are costly or not, compared to our statistical neighbours. Establishing this provides a guide to the extent to which savings / efficiencies might be achievable. The evidence gathered to date indicates that the cost of Safeguarding is low to average, whilst performance is generally good. Scope to make significant savings therefore would appear limited although possible.

5 Summary Position against Cash Limited Budget at the end of June 2016

- 5.1 The current projected overspend for the Children's Social Care Portfolio is forecast at £0.4m, all attributable to the Children's Social Care and Safeguarding service as identified below.

Service Area	Current Budget	Current Forecast	Variation
	£000	£000	£000
Troubled Families	213	213	0
Early Years & Children's Centres	230	239	9
Children Social Care & Safeguarding	22,928	23,370	442
	23,371	23,822	451

- 5.2 Troubled Families has a cash limit allocation of £213,000 and this is supplemented by significant grant funding estimated at some £1,043,000, of which £793,000 is dependent on target achievement. Current spending is in line with estimates.
- 5.3 Early Years and Children's Centres have a cash limit budget of £230,000, which is supplemented by Public Health funding allocation to provide an overall budget of £1,818,000. At the current time, whilst there are certain pressures on the budget, it is anticipated that these will be managed and the service will spend broadly in line with the budget.

5.4 The Children's Social Care and Safeguarding budget is currently forecasting an overspend of £0.4m. This is the summation of variations in a number of areas which are explained further below:

5.4.1 Assessment and Intervention Service (£125,000 under spend): Current staffing levels, turnover and vacancies have led to staffing costs for the year being currently projected some £163,000 below budget. The ability to maintain the vacancies at these levels and deliver these projected "savings" will need to be kept under review.

5.4.2 At the same time a pressure of £38,000 is forecast in respect of expenditure in providing assistance to those with no recourse to public funds or children in need (under Section 17 of the Children Act 1989).

5.4.3 Looked After Children (LAC) (£377,000 over spend): The reason for the overspend is largely related to higher costs and numbers of child placements resulting in a forecast overspend of £370,000, as shown below. This is obviously a volatile area with continual movement in numbers, however the forecasts are based on current placement numbers and costs being maintained on average until the year end. These costs exclude Unaccompanied Asylum Seeking Children and may reduce further following a review of funding contributions towards external residential placements.

June 2016 Placement Type	Budget			Current Forecast
	Average	Av Unit Cost	Budget	Average Predicted	Av Unit Cost	Estimated Outturn	Budget Pressure
	Nos	£	£	Nos	£	£	£
External Residential	9.02	107,871	973,000	7.85	174,807	1,372,235	399,235
Semi Ex-Residential	2.42	23,967	58,000	0.00	23,967	0	-58,000
Independent Fostering Agency (IFA)	49.29	44,293	2,183,200	39.08	45,290	1,769,933	-413,267
In-House Foster care	193.95	20,540	3,983,700	207.25	21,027	4,357,846	374,146
Adoption	60.07	5,827	350,000	62.25	5,835	363,229	13,229
Residence	27.96	6,438	180,000	25.33	7,517	190,406	10,406
Special Guardianship	118.58	4,962	588,400	129.58	4,879	632,221	43,821
TOTAL			8,316,300			8,685,869	369,569

5.4.4 Staffing costs are currently projected to be below the budget provision by around £153,000, reflecting staff turnover and vacancies anticipated for the year.

5.4.5 With added focus on Adoption support in line with the government's adoption agenda to move children into permanent arrangements, there is an anticipated pressure of £100,000, associated with the purchase of placements and removal of Government support for inter-agency placements later in the year. A further £60,000 pressure is anticipated on a variety of other budget areas.

5.4.6 Safeguarding & Monitoring (£23,000 over spend): staffing stability means that anticipated turnover savings are not being realised in this area of the service.

5.4.7 Support Activities (£162,000 over spend): This projected overspend is predominantly related to delays in the delivery of savings proposals.

6 Summary

- 6.1 The portfolio budget is currently overspending and can broadly be attributed to placement costs as described in section 5 of this report. Other pressure areas and delayed savings delivery have been broadly offset by in year savings from staffing turnover and vacancies.
- 6.2 Significant work has already been undertaken to establish whether the Looked After Children and Safeguarding services more generally are costly or not, compared to our statistical neighbours. Establishing this provides a guide to the extent to which savings / efficiencies might be achievable. The evidence gathered to date indicates that the cost of Safeguarding is low to average cost whilst performance is generally good. Scope to make significant savings therefore would appear limited although possible.

7 Equality impact assessment (EIA)

- 7.1 No impact assessment has been carried out as the proposals do not have any impact upon a particular equalities group.

8 Legal comments

- 8.1 There are no legal implications arising directly from the recommendations in this report.

9 Director of Finance comments

- 9.1 Financial comments are contained within the body of the report.

Portsmouth
CITY COUNCIL

Title of meeting:	Children's Social Care Portfolio Decision Meeting
Subject:	Children's Lives in Portsmouth - A response to the key issues highlighted by the Children's Society in the recent report
Date of meeting:	Tuesday 6 th September
Report by:	Sarah Newman, Deputy Director of Children's Services - Children's Social Care
Wards affected:	All

1. Requested by: Alison Jeffery, Director of Children's Services

2. Purpose: To update members with the work being done by services across the council following the publication of The Children's Society report Children's Lives In Portsmouth

3. Background

3.1. In May 2016, the Children's Society published a series of reports about children's lives in different Local Authority areas. The report for Portsmouth, Children's Lives In Portsmouth outlined issues affecting children in Portsmouth who are at risk of abuse or neglect, and those living in the poorest families. The report distinguishes a number of groups of children - which I have dealt with separately below

A. Children in Need/Adolescents in Need

- The Children's Society report highlights that there are 43,360 children in Portsmouth, and 1436 categorised as children in need. At the end of May 2016, Children's Social Care was working with 1348 children. During 2015/16 Children's Social Care completed almost 1900 assessments to determine whether children needed support from Children's Social Care under the statutory framework for children in need as outlined by S17 Children Act 1989.
- The Children's Society report highlighted concern about the support available for 16 and 17 year olds in the city, citing that nationally over 90 per cent of 16 and 17 year olds remain in their parents care. In Children's Social Care we have worked with our foster carers and with colleagues from Housing Options to ensure that there is a range of accommodation available to children and young people who cannot live at home.

THIS ITEM IS FOR INFORMATION ONLY
(Please note that "Information Only" reports do not require Equality Impact Assessments, Legal or Finance Comments as no decision is being taken)

- Between 01/04/2015 and 31/03/2016 49 young people presented to Children's Social Care for housing related issues. All these young people received an assessment to determine how best to support them.
- The Children's Society previously published a report Getting The House In Order outlining the challenges faced by homeless 16 and 17 year olds. This report makes recommendations to improve the safeguarding response to these young people. In particular, there is a recommendation that no child under 18 can be made intentionally homeless.
- In Portsmouth all children who present as homeless are jointly assessed by Children's Social Care and Housing and a joint protocol exists outlining who has responsibility for what so as to promote best practice. In addition to this there is a joint arrangement to oversee the commissioning arrangements of supported accommodation for vulnerable 16 and 17 year olds.

B. Children who go missing from home or care

- The Children's Society report highlights that every child who goes missing from home or care should be offered an independent return interview. Portsmouth City Council has recently reviewed the Missing, Exploited and Trafficked Strategy and strengthened the guidance for children who go missing from home or care. A risk assessment tool now exists along with clear pathways for support.
- Children's Social Care commission a service from Barnardo's (Miss U) to offer return interviews and provide support to these children. If a child is receiving support from Children's Social Care, the allocated social worker will complete this work, being independent from the care arrangement, and a reporting framework is being developed to ensure we are reaching the right children.

C. Mental Health Services for children and young people

- The Children's Society report highlights that in 2014/15 the average CCG spending on mental health for children was £2,721,000 whereas in Wessex for the same period it was £2,355,000. The recent report by the Health Select Committee that 'there are deeply ingrained problems with the commissioning and provision of children's and adolescent's mental health services' is cited.
- The Children's Society recommends that the LSCB has oversight of the access children have to mental health services and in Portsmouth the Safeguarding Board is scrutinising data provided by Public Health and the provider service.
- In Portsmouth there are transition processes in place for young people who go on to need services as vulnerable adults

D. Early Intervention

- The Children's Society report highlights the decrease in general funding available for Early Help, and outlines that Portsmouth City Council has experienced a decline in financial support by 44.87 per cent between 2010-11 and 2015-16.
- This decline is mirrored in many other places in the country and chiefly reflects the significant reduction over that period in the funding allocation nationally for Children's Centres. Portsmouth has had tough decisions to make and there have been other reductions in early help services, too. We still maintain a number of in-house early help and public health services, however, plus contracts with the voluntary sector, such as Barnardo's and HomeStart.

E. Immigration

- The Children's Society report outlines that the numbers of unaccompanied asylum seekers looked after by Authorities across the county have increased.
- Between April 2015 and March 2016 Portsmouth City Council experienced a significant rise in the number of UASCs arriving through the port. For a significant period of time PCC were looking after between two and five new arrivals per year; but 2015/16 saw this increase to 32. The rise in UASC is expected to continue.
- To manage increasing demand Children's Social Care is developing expertise in managing these young people - assessing for trafficking factors, using interpreters, developing a two week induction to Portsmouth, developing arrangements with local schools and colleges and building a bank of carers motivated to care for these vulnerable children.
- Nationally the government have now established a voluntary dispersal scheme so as to distribute the demand for public services across local authorities. The scheme is based on an assumption that each LA should each accommodate a number of UASC at a rate of 0.07 of the child population. In Portsmouth this gives us a quota of 33 UASC. Should more children arrive into Portsmouth through the port, we will be working with colleagues from neighbouring authorities across the south east to manage their transfer.

F. Child Poverty

- The Children's Society estimate that 28.72 per cent of children in Portsmouth are living in poverty. They reference The Debt Trap report highlighting that a third of families in debt cut back on food, heating and clothing - and that these families are twice as likely to experience arguments and relationship stresses that have a negative impact on children.

THIS ITEM IS FOR INFORMATION ONLY
(Please note that "Information Only" reports do not require Equality Impact Assessments, Legal or Finance Comments as no decision is being taken)

- In Portsmouth, we no longer have a Council-run, application-based Local Welfare Assistance Scheme, however we have a number of schemes to assist families living in poverty. Services available include debt counselling, money advisors and a full range of social welfare advice commissioned by the Council from Advice Portsmouth, small energy grants during the colder months November to March, discount furniture/household goods stores and food banks. This information and support is available to 16 and 17 year olds. We also have a credit union offering affordable savings and loans schemes (loans are not available to under-18s).

4. Recommendations

4.1. The Children's Society report makes a number of recommendations to improve outcomes for children in Portsmouth. The table below highlights the Children's Society recommendations, where PCC already has actions in place and where we may need to take action.

Area of concern	Recommendation	Actions in place	Actions to be considered/ developed
Children in Need	Local authorities should develop written policies that offer clarity on the nature and scope of their responsibilities in relation to legal aid for separated children	✓
	Annually monitor the spending on local welfare provision to build up a profile of need in the area		✓
Adolescents in Need	Ask your Local safeguarding Board to audit the safeguarding response that agencies provide to 16 and 17 year olds and review thresholds for intervention to ensure they do not discriminate against or fail to assess 16 and 17 year olds	✓
	Adopt an explicit policy that no child under 18 can be 'intentionally homeless'		✓
	Review the local homelessness protocol to ensure all children under 18 who present as homeless receive a joint assessment from Housing and Children's Services	✓
	Local authorities - as commissioners of supported accommodation for vulnerable 16 and 17 year olds - should ensure all these settings have effective safeguarding policies in place and are regularly scrutinised by the Local safeguarding Board		✓
	Health and Wellbeing Boards should ensure local joint strategic Needs Assessments explicitly include children and young people's mental health.	✓

THIS ITEM IS FOR INFORMATION ONLY
(Please note that "Information Only" reports do not require Equality Impact Assessments, Legal or Finance Comments as no decision is being taken)

	They should also study the needs of different vulnerable groups at risk of developing mental health problems, to assess current and future need and inform commissioning strategies
--	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--	--

Area of concern	Recommendation	Actions in place	Actions to be considered/ developed
Adolescents in Need	Local authorities, through Local Safeguarding Children Boards, should review and monitor access to mental health support for children who have experienced abuse and trauma. They should ensure that such services are commissioned locally and that there are policies in place for priority access to services for all children who need it	✓
	All mental health services should have policies in place on transitions for young people from vulnerable groups between the levels of CAMHS services and the transition to adult services. This will ensure that children do not fall through the cracks of services, and that they have continuous access to mental health support. Policies on transitions should outline how CAMHS will work with other agencies in planning transition	✓
	Every local authority needs to have a welfare assistance scheme which does not exclude 16 and 17 year olds from support	✓
Children who go missing from home or care	Every child or teenager who goes missing or absent from home or care should be offered an independent return interview	✓
Early Intervention	Prioritise resources raised through business rate growth for early intervention services, using local needs assessments and open consultation with local residents	✓
Immigration	Local authorities should ensure the systematic collection of data for separated children with non-asylum immigration claims	✓
	Local authorities should train social workers and independent Reviewing Officers in the identification of children who are out of scope for legal aid, and in how to best support their legal needs within this new and complex territory	✓
Poverty	Councils should exempt care leavers from paying council tax until to the age of 21		✓
	Every local authority should have a debt collection strategy which includes measures to address the impact of collection on children		✓
	Councils should not engage bailiffs for collecting		✓

	council tax debt from families who are in receipt of Council Tax Support and have children
	Local authorities should use community hubs as locations to deliver outreach debt advice and fuel poverty work, to ensure hard to reach families are able to access the service and support	✓

Area of concern	Recommendation	Actions in place	Actions to be considered/developed
	Local authorities should advertise and promote the Warm Home Discount - a rebate of £140 on electricity bills for the most vulnerable - in services that families access, such as children's centres	✓
	Local authorities need to consider the impact of changes to disability benefits under UC on families. The loss of SDP is likely to be particularly severe. There will be a need to reconsider support services in light of this	✓
	Local authorities have a key role to play in ensuring that families with children that need Alternative Payment Arrangements under Universal Credit are able to receive them	✓
	Local authorities need to consider access to online provision of UC for local families - particularly for those requiring regular updates to claims, such as parents with childcare costs	✓

5. Actions

5.1. The following actions will be followed up, in accordance with improving outcomes for local children:

- 1) Children's Social Care to work with the Housing Department to explore possibility of commitment that no child under 18 can be made intentionally homeless.
- 2) To consider whether sufficiency report dealing with Housing Options for 16 and 17 year olds should go to the Safeguarding Board as well as Corporate Parenting Board.
- 3) Children's Social Care to explore whether care leavers can be exempt from paying council tax up until the age of age 21.
- 4) The Acting Tackling Poverty Coordinator will support any work to ensure PCC debt collection is appropriate and effective, taking into account the impact on families.

THIS ITEM IS FOR INFORMATION ONLY
(Please note that "Information Only" reports do not require Equality Impact Assessments, Legal or Finance Comments as no decision is being taken)

- 5) The Acting Tackling Poverty Coordinator continues to review assistance schemes and online advice annually in April, and amend it during the year for any changes in provision. Learning links are launching a second-hand furniture store in Portsmouth that will offer help to people who are unable to afford essential household items, which will help us to understand more about this need and how it can be met. This offer, and how to access it, will be included in the online advice once it is available.

Introduction

The Children's Society works with some of the most vulnerable children across the country. This report focuses on issues affecting children within Portsmouth who are at particular risk of abuse or neglect, and those in the poorest families.

There are currently 43,360 children in Portsmouth, with 1,436 of these children being categorised as 'children in need'. This report sets out recommendations on the steps you can take to help them.

Throughout this report, where data is more appropriate we will provide information on a regional basis or from Portsmouth Council.

If you would like to find out more about any of the issues outlined in the report or about the work of The Children's Society, please contact our Senior Public Affairs Officer, Tom Redfearn on thomas.redfearn@childrenssociety.org.uk or 020 7841 4573.

Children at risk

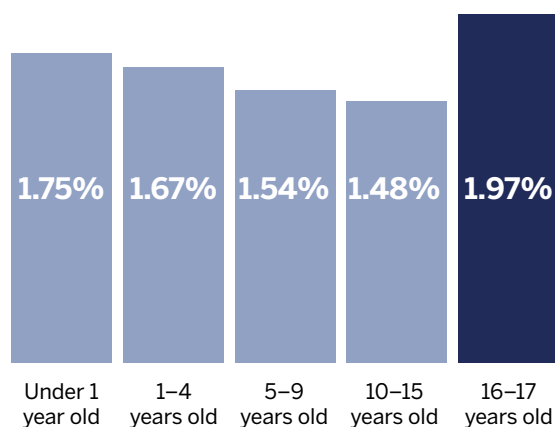

1. Children in need

In Portsmouth, of the 1,436 children classified as 'children in need', 217 are aged 16 or 17.

The Children's Society works with adolescents to help them deal with the issues they face, helping them develop resilience, advocating for their access to services, providing counselling and therapeutic support and educating them to stay safe.

We are particularly concerned about the lack of protection for 16 and 17 year olds who are more likely to experience abuse and neglect than any other age group of children¹ and yet do not receive the same legal protections as younger children. Due to legal changes in education and welfare provision, the number of children aged 16 and 17 who remain dependant on their families for emotional, financial and other support has increased. Over 90% of children aged 16 or 17 now live at home with their parents. While most children will get loving and caring support from their families, we want to protect those who are threatened by abuse and neglect.

Percentage of children in need because of abuse and neglect, by age

Recommendations

- Every child or teenager who goes missing or absent from home or care should be offered an independent return interview.
- Ask your Local Safeguarding Children Board to audit the safeguarding response that agencies provide to 16 and 17 year olds and review thresholds for intervention to ensure they do not discriminate against or fail to assess 16 and 17 year olds.

2. Youth homelessness

Last year in the South East 1890 children aged 16 or 17 presented as homeless. These teenagers are often at serious risk of harm and can be escaping homes where they face problems such as substance abuse, violence or severe overcrowding.

At The Children's Society we run a number of services to help homeless young people. Our services offer family mediation and work with both parents and children to re-open communication between them and help the family make the changes that will allow young people to live safely and happily at home.

In circumstances where a safe return to the family is not possible, we offer advocacy services for these vulnerable young people to help them assert their rights and ensure that they get all the help and support that they want and are entitled to.

Our report *Getting the House in Order*² provides an in-depth view of the challenges faced by homeless 16 and 17 year olds and makes recommendations to improve the safeguarding response of local authorities to these children.

We are pressing Government to strengthen the legal framework to better protect older children and enable them to safely move into adulthood. Local authorities should not classify older children as intentionally homeless, because doing so results in support being withheld. Local authorities should not give up on young people who need help but refuse to enter the care system. Councils need to make sure that the children are in accommodation which is safe and regulated.

When they came to ask

Recommendations

- Adopt an explicit policy that no child under 18 can be made 'intentionally homeless'.
- Review the local homelessness protocol to ensure all children under 18 who present as homeless receive a joint assessment from housing and children's services.
- Local authorities, as commissioners of supported accommodation for vulnerable 16 and 17 year olds, should ensure all these settings have effective safeguarding policies in place and are regularly scrutinised by the Local Safeguarding Children Board.

3. Mental health services for young people

In the year 2014–15, total spending on children and young people's mental health spend services (across Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCG), local authorities and NHS England) in Wessex was £39,245,000. The average local authority CAMHS expenditure for local authorities in Wessex was £712,000 with the average spend across England being £949,000. In the same period, the average spending by CCG on mental health for children in Wessex was £2,355,000 – compared to the England average of £2,721,000.

According to a recent report by the Health Select Committee, 'there are serious and deeply ingrained problems with the commissioning and provision of children's and adolescents' mental health services.'³ This is supported by the latest available national data which shows that only 6% of the NHS expenditure on mental health disorders in the year 2012–13 was spent on CAMHS⁴.

The Children's Society offers a range of counselling, befriending and emotional support services across the country to some of the teenagers who need it most. Our practitioners tell us that there is a growing need for better mental health support for vulnerable children and young people. They are particularly worried about the lack of services available for older teenagers. We believe that commissioning and funding arrangements for mental health services for young people should be underpinned with robust, up to date data on prevalence of mental health needs among different vulnerable groups of young people, including those in poverty – and that there should be a greater focus on early intervention.

In last year's budget announcement, the Chancellor committed an additional £1.25 billion – up to £250 million a year for the proceeding five years – to transform and boost CAMHS.

It is important that this new investment is used to fill the gaps in current service provision – such as facilities for older teenagers or therapeutic support for young people experiencing separation, abuse or other traumatic events.

Local areas need to undertake assessments of the level of need in their area including how they will meet the needs of the most vulnerable children and young people.

Recommendations

- Health and Well-Being Boards should ensure local Joint Strategic Needs Assessments explicitly include children and young people's mental health and the needs of different vulnerable groups at risk of developing mental health problems, to assess current and future need and inform commissioning strategies.
- Local authorities – through Local Safeguarding Children's Boards (LSCBs) – should review and monitor access to mental health support for children who have experienced abuse and trauma, ensure that such services are commissioned locally, and ensure that there are policies in place for priority access to services for all children who need it.
- All mental health services should have policies in place on transitions for young people from vulnerable groups between the levels of CAMHS services and to transition to adult services. This would ensure that children do not fall through the cracks of services and that they have continuous access to mental health support. Policies on transitions should outline how CAMHS will work with other agencies in planning transition.

4. Early intervention

The Government allocated £5,860,340 in early intervention funding to Portsmouth Council this year, that's a reduction of £6,695,986 per year compared to 2010. This massive reduction means local authorities are less able to address the problems experienced by children and families at an early stage. Children suffer harm that could have been prevented and the state is faced with greater costs as they are forced to deal with more entrenched, serious and expensive problems at a later date.

The consistent fall in funding nationally and across regions, reflects the stark reality facing local authorities and the scale of challenge they now face in preserving early intervention services in the future.

In 2010, before the emergency budget, £3.2 billion was allocated by central government for local authority early intervention services. By comparison, the 2015 Comprehensive Spending Review stated that £939 million would be provided to local authorities for early intervention services by 2019/20. This would equate to a real terms reduction of 71 per cent for early intervention services between 2010–11 and 2019–20.

These substantial spending reductions mean that in coming years local authorities will need to put particular emphasis on early intervention services when allocating their annual budgets.

Some local authorities have employed a range of different approaches to retaining early intervention across local communities. Key themes include using programmes with a clear evidence base, taking a multi-disciplinary approach and attempts to retain a degree of universal services.

We run a number of services which intervene early to stop problems developing further. Our services provide one-to-one support to children at high risk of sexual exploitation, teaching them about consent, healthy relationships and staying safe so they can avoid exploitative situations.

Recommendations

- Prioritise resources raised through business rate growth for early intervention services, using local needs assessments and open consultation with local residents.

5. Children with irregular immigration status

In the South East, 660 unaccompanied asylum seeking children were in the care of local authorities. These are children fleeing persecution, war and abuse from across the globe. There are also many other children in the region with an irregular immigration status which can cut them from support and leave them with an unsecure future.

Private fostering is an arrangement that is made without the knowledge of a local authority for the care of a child under the age of 16 (under 18, if disabled) by someone other than a parent or close relative with the intention that it should last for 28 days or more.

Whilst it is difficult to determine the numbers of separated migrant children living in private foster care arrangements, partly because the majority of these arrangements exist unknown to child protection authorities, using existing data our research has estimated that between 9,300 and 12,400 migrant children may well be living in private foster care arrangements. The immigration status of who of these children is often unclear and remains unresolved.

If children with an irregular immigration status are within the UK care system, we find that all too often immigration control is prioritised over their welfare and best interests. These children experience low levels of support and an inadequate standard of living which can put them at risk of destitution, homelessness and exploitation.

The Children's Society work to make sure those children we work with do not feel alone and have access to the services they are entitled to. However, the legal system for these children is very complex and difficult to navigate without someone independent of the Local Authority there to help them. We believe that all unaccompanied children seeking asylum should be entitled to an independent legal advocate to help them navigate complex immigration and social care systems.

Recommendations

- Local authorities should ensure the systematic collection of data for separated children with non-asylum immigration claims.
- Local authorities should train social workers and Independent Reviewing Officers in the identification of children who are out of scope of legal aid and in how to best support their legal needs within this new and complex territory.
- Local authorities should develop written policies that offer clarity on the nature and scope of their responsibilities in relation to legal aid for separated children.

Child poverty and inequality

1. Families living with child poverty

It is unacceptable that any child is living in poverty in the UK, let alone almost 3.7 million children. Poverty has a devastating effect on children, harming their immediate well-being and drastically reducing opportunities throughout their lives. There are 12,451 children living in poverty in Portsmouth.

We have estimated that there are around 314,504 children in the South East who live in a family that is in problem debt. Our The Debt Trap⁵ report revealed that around a third of families in problem debt say they cut back on food within the last month, with a similar proportion saying they cut back on heating, and also on clothing for themselves and their children every month in order to keep up with repayments. Families trapped in problem debt are also more than twice as likely to argue about money problems, leading to stress on family relationships, and causing emotional distress for children.

Recommendations

- Every local authority needs to have a welfare assistance scheme which does not exclude 16–17 year olds from support.
- Annually monitor the spending on local welfare provision to build up a profile of need in the area.

2. Families in council tax debt

Our Debt Trap research also identified that in 2014–15 there were 6,133 children living in families in council tax debt in Portsmouth. There are 1.6 million children living in families who have faced council tax debt, with 2 in 10 families visited by bailiffs to reclaim council tax. This equates to thousands of children experiencing fear, intimidation and worry at the hands of bailiffs.

We would urge local authorities to protect children by not sending bailiffs round to families with children. Our research has shown that using bailiffs has a particularly damaging impact on the emotional health and well-being of children.

Using bailiffs also incurs an additional cost for families that are already struggling. As such, we recommend that local authorities use alternative collection policies that are available to them, putting in place affordable repayment plans for families.

Our report *The Wolf at the Door*⁶ showed that one group particularly susceptible to council tax debt is care leavers. In 2014, 6,880 young people aged 18 or over ceased to be in the care of their local authority.

Often, when care leavers move into independent accommodation they begin to manage their own budget fully for the first time. Young people in this situation have told us that managing and understanding council tax bills for the first time is frequently a challenge.

To ensure that the transition from care to adult life is as smooth as possible – and to mitigate the chances of them falling into debt as they begin to manage their own finances – we recommend that care leavers should be exempt from paying council tax until they are 21. This is an issue that must be decided at a national level, as is the case for the student exemption. As an interim measure we are asking local authorities to make this group eligible for 100% council tax support until they turn 21.

Recommendations

- Councils should exempt care leavers from paying council tax up to the age of 21.
- Every local authority should have a debt collection strategy which includes measures to address the impact of collection on children.
- Councils should not engage bailiffs for collecting council tax debt from families who are in receipt of Council Tax Support and have children.

3. Families in energy debt

Our report Show Some Warmth⁷ found that there are around 7,032 children in Portsmouth living in energy debt. Children in families in energy debt are three times more likely to have damp or mould in their homes and to have been ill last winter, and are twice as likely to have breathing problems.

Community hubs such as schools and nurseries proved to be a useful location for building engagement with the community, as a number of low income and fuel poor families already access the services available there – meaning staff could build on the support already provided.

Families are often being left with impossible choices between keeping their children warm and paying off debt – feeling they have no alternative to cutting back on hot meals, baths or even heating their children's bedrooms.

Recommendations

- Local authorities should use community hubs as locations to deliver outreach debt advice and fuel poverty work, to ensure hard to reach families are able to access this service and support.
- Local authorities should advertise and promote the Warm Home Discount – a rebate of £140 on electricity bills for the most vulnerable – in services that families access, such as children's centres.

4. Tackling child poverty through Universal Credit

The introduction of the new Universal Credit (UC) benefits system will have a profound impact on millions of children and families across the country. Once it has been fully introduced, around half of children in the UK will live in families in receipt of UC.

The new system has real potential to make work pay, and to lift children out of poverty. However the Government must review the introduction of the new system to ensure that it really supports those families that need it most.

Support for children with disabilities and the abolition of the Severe Disability Premium under UC

A recent report from The Children's Society has shown that many disabled children will get considerably less support under UC – for many, the value of the disabled child additions in UC will be worth only half their current value through the disability element of tax credits. This will clearly have a significant effect on their family income and well-being.

The Severe Disability Premium (SDP) currently gives additional support to disabled adults with no other adult to care for them (including disabled single parents cared for by a young carer). This extra support helps to cover the additional costs of living with a disability but no carer.

The Government is abolishing the SDP through the introduction of the Universal Credit. This will cost families with a young carer up to £55.30 per week (£2876 per year). This cut could be equivalent to 20% of household income after housing costs.

Without the SDP, it is crucial that local authorities consider whether the level of support provided through social care services is sufficient to meet the needs of disabled lone parents with young carers.

Reduced work allowances under Universal Credit

Whilst the Government decided to change its proposals to reduce income thresholds within the Tax Credit system, no similar agreement was reached for UC, meaning that many working families will see reductions in support under UC.

The Children's Society calculations showed that in total 2.4 million families with children would have been affected by the Tax Credit changes – about 84% of those households affected. The proportional impact on families with children is likely to be similar in UC.

The impact of payment and administration of Universal Credit on children

There are a number of changes to the payment and administration of UC on families with children. For example, payments will be made monthly in arrears – which could present significant problems to claimants used to budgeting on a shorter term basis.

In addition, payments of UC will not be made to the main carer in the household as standard. There is considerable evidence that the best way to ensure that benefit payments for children are used for the child's needs is to pay the support to the main carer – changes may present risks to this.

In addition, families living in social rented housing will be expected to manage housing payments being made to them directly. Evidence from the Direct Payments Demonstration Project suggested that many families struggled to manage with these arrangements.

Finally, UC will normally be managed online – this could present real challenges for those families not able to use the internet, or who do not possess the means to do so.

'Alternative Payment Arrangements' will be available for those who struggle with the standard payment and administration arrangements – local authorities will have a key role to play in making sure families that need them get this support.

Recommendations

- Local authorities need to consider the impact of changes to disability benefits under UC on families. The loss of the SDP is likely to be particularly severe. There will be a need to reconsider support services in light of this.
- Local authorities have a key role to play in ensuring that families with children that need Alternative Payment Arrangements under Universal Credit are able to receive them.
- Local authorities need to consider access to online provision of UC for local families – particularly for those requiring regular updates to claims, such as parents with childcare costs.

Conclusion and summary of recommendations

The next four years will be crucial for children in your area. We look forward to working with you to promote policies which will help the most vulnerable children and young people.

Our key recommendations for the coming term to help children are:

- Every child or teenager who goes missing or absent from home or care should be offered an independent return interview.
- Ask your Local Safeguarding Children Board to audit the safeguarding response that agencies provide to 16 and 17 year olds and review thresholds for intervention to ensure they do not discriminate against or fail to assess 16 and 17 year olds.
- Adopt an explicit policy that no child under 18 can be made 'intentionally homeless'.
- Review the local homelessness protocol to ensure all children under 18 who present as homeless receive a joint assessment from housing and children's services.
- Local authorities – as commissioners of supported accommodation for vulnerable 16 and 17 year olds – should ensure all these settings have effective safeguarding policies in place and are regularly scrutinised by the Local Safeguarding Children Board.
- Health and Well-Being Boards should ensure local Joint Strategic Needs Assessments explicitly include children and young people's mental health. They should also study the needs of different vulnerable groups at risk of developing mental health problems, to assess current and future need and inform commissioning strategies.
- Local authorities, through Local Safeguarding Children Boards, should review and monitor access to mental health support for children who have experienced abuse and trauma. They should ensure that such services are commissioned locally and that there are policies in place for priority access to services for all children who need it.
- All mental health services should have policies in place on transitions for young people from vulnerable groups between the levels of CAMHS services and the transition to adult services. This will ensure that children do not fall through the cracks of services, and that they have continuous access to mental health support. Policies on transitions should outline how CAMHS will work with other agencies in planning transition.
- Prioritise resources raised through business rate growth for early intervention services, using local needs assessments and open consultation with local residents.
- Local authorities should ensure the systematic collection of data for separated children with non-asylum immigration claims.
- Local authorities should train social workers and Independent Reviewing Officers in the identification of children who are out of the scope of legal aid, and in how to best support their legal needs within this new and complex territory.

How The Children's Society helps children in England

Nationally, through our network of children's centres, volunteers and targeted services, we worked with over 34,000 children and young people last year, bringing positive changes to children and families and supporting vulnerable children up and down the country.

Much of our work is aimed at providing long term intensive work with the children and young people who need it most. Last year we helped 15,820 children and young people with intensive support.

We know these services are having a great impact, with 71% of families and 73% of children and young people showing a positive change in their lives
