By removing library fines the Library and Archive Service is preventing barriers to use from those on low incomes or experiencing deprivation as they can borrow books freely with no concern about being penalised financially if they are unable to return a book on time. Free reservations opens up access to those on low incomes. If they use one library they are able to reserve books and items from other libraries free of charge, meaning that they can access the whole city library stock. Any potential problem of books being returned very late and unavailable to other users has been mitigated by placing a trap on library cards with overdue items, motivating the member to renew or return the items.

How are you going to measure/check the impact of your proposal?

Regular monthly monitoring of library issues and reservations. Feedback from staff and customers.
